MAKE POVERTY HISTORY

THAI "NUM CHAI" HUMANITARIAN PROJECT

Thailand is a Southeast Asian nation with a population of 60.6 million people. In these difficult economic times, helping those in need, especially the children is even more important.

The Thai "Nam Chai" (translates as "Kind Heart") Humanitarian Project was established to reach the less fortune in its charitable and philanthropic efforts. The vast majority of the Thai people are poor and impoverished and in desperate need of support systems in almost every one of the 76 Thai provinces.

The business communities and charitable organizations, despite downturns in the economic situation continue to give generously including activities and financial donation, for some of the following: tree planting programs; preservation of the Thai wildlife; upcountry schools e.g. in provinces such as: Prachin Buri, Samut Sakorn and Autthaya; HM the Majesty's Golden Jubilee Forest Plantation Program; YMCA foundation for Northern Development; Heart valve Fund; Southern Flood Victims; the kidney foundation of Thailand; scholarship to the International Support Group for the Department of Public Welfare for needy Thai school students; HRH princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn's Fund for the Development of children and youth in Remote Areas of Thailand; Duang Prateep foundation for Slum children; Drug Prevention Programs.

However, as part of "Num Chai's" commitment we have made one of our aim and policy to donate a part of the percentage income received from investment trade program for direct activities in improving the lives children through education and provision of support systems. Our motto "Education Is the Seed Planted in Children and their Key to Long Term Success".

Our donation will give needy Thai children the opportunity for a good education, or assist with a variety of publicity or education projects. The Thai

Government provides free education for children up to the age of 14 years old but opportunities for children who wish to continue their education is almost impossible due to financial constraints.

We also work with governmental and other non – governmental organizations to improve the living standards of disadvantaged members of society. "Num Chai" aims is to carry out a wide range of projects, besides education, that are designed to promote self – sufficiency within communities in the various provinces of Thailand.

Despite Thailand's high levels of economic growth in recent years and the social changes this has brought about, a large number of people in this country are living with the daily realities of malnutrition, poor sanitation and hygiene, and limited access to education, or further education.

As a result of these conditions, they do not have a fair chance at self – improvement and find themselves excluded from mainstream economic life.

At present, our project aims to sponsor 500,000 Thai children throughout the country through community. Such projects attempt to promote the self-sufficiency of communities and take on a variety of forms:

* Non Productive Assistance: This includes the provision of basic necessities such as health clinics, clean water sources and schooling.

* Productive Assistance: This provides funds that will help to stimulate economic life in rural areas.

The "Num Chai" Humanitarian Project is a private, family, non-profit organization. We finance all our own projects and also contribute our personal funds to the Charities under the patronage of The Thai Royal Family.

In our projects, we rely on the goodwill of around 10,000 volunteers throughout the country in most of the 76 provinces. Most of the volunteers working on the projects are community leaders and village representatives. Their knowledge of the locality and its inhabitants ensures the smooth running of our projects.

"Num Chai's Projects"

Our aim is to build a community complex around "Education" i.e. schools for children, adult education and learning-skills centers for sewing, painting, arts and crafts etc.,

1. Educational Programmers

Educational is the key to the long-term success of development projects as it promotes self-sufficiency. We will sponsor children's education from elementary level through to vocational training and university studies.

2. Child Development Centers

These Centers are to be located in remote areas all around the country, and they work to assist children from disadvantaged families, providing general welfare and developmental services. One of our main programmers is the daily lunch programmer, aimed at eliminating malnutrition amongst children. The programmer provides food with the most nutritional value such as milk, fruit and Soya beans.

3. Development for village families

The cycle of poverty can be ended with assistance, which will promote self-reliance. We aim to assist families to develop many types of productive business ventures such as fertilizers, animal feed, livestock, and agriculture.

4. Health, Hygiene and Community Programmers

At the field level, we will assist villagers by constructing toilets and water jars, providing vaccination against disease and training people in nutrition and hygiene. Community programmers include housing projects and the construction of public amenities such as electricity generating facilities, water supply facilities, health clinics and multi-purpose community buildings such as libraries, playground and community centers.

The long-rang goal of the Thai "Nam Chai" Humanitarian Project is to build a complete complex (as described above) in each of the 76 provinces of Thailand. Each of these complexes, is estimated to cost around 85,000,000 Baht (Eighty five Million Baht) to complete, and will provide employment to the future residents during the construction and development stages.

Our initial aim is to construct and operate complexes in the ten most impoverished provinces. As soon as it is financially viable, we will continue to build the next batch of complexes till we complete every one of the 76 provinces. The total project costs required will be around:

$$85,000,000 \times 76 = 6,460,000 \text{ Baht}$$

The U.S Dollar equivalent is US$ 153,809,523

The total amount required for the humanitarian project is estimated to be about US$154,000,000.00 (United States Dollars One Hundred and Fifty Four Million)

Madame Olivia Y.M Liu and/or her designated assignees will complete this project.
